believing that there are many in Southern California and elsewhere who may wish either to establish their descent or to invest their pedigree with heraldic and historic interest, announces the opening of a studio, in Blanchard Building, Los Angeles, to be devoted exclusively to Heraldic Designing and Genealogic Research. Appointments may be made for interviews. Hours: 2 to 5 P.M. daily. All inquiries by mail will receive prompt attention.

Mr. Herbert C. Andrews

Reliable Research

R. ANDREWS has had extensive experience in his profession, and enjoys a reputation and clientele that are national in scope. Having been in attendance for several years in the Historic and Genealogic Department of the NEWBERRY LIBRARY, CHICAGO, (the largest of its kind in the country), he has had exceptional opportunities for research and for a thorough knowledge of his profession. He is compiler of over thirty family histories. In the pursuit of his investigations he has collected a quantity of very valuable genealogic notes referring to several thousand families of English lineage — much of this data being secured from family records, accessible to the historian but not to the public at large. He is thoroughly familiar with genealogic books and their contents from daily use and handling, and keeps in touch with all new publications, hence he knows HOW TO SEARCH and WHERE TO FIND. In addition to his large private collection of books and MSS. he has expert correspondents throughout the East and in Great Britain, and is therefore in a position to guarantee to his clients the BEST SERVICE OBTAINABLE. Such special commissions as require the most exhaustive research MR. ANDREWS will undertake personally at the eastern or foreign libraries.

B o u n d M S S .

SPECIALTY is made of the preparation of Family Histories, containing the direct ancestry of the present descendant on all branches as far back as can be traced. MR. ANDREWS is the originator of this style of genealogy, and his work has attracted considerable attention in the East. Data is arranged according to families, with charts showing descent. Authorities are given in full for every statement. MSS. are typewritten on Whatman's hand-made paper, heavy weight, rough edges, each page eight and one-half by eleven, embellished with illuminated initial letters, bound in vellum, levant or oozed goat-skin, and illustrated with reproductions from photographs, etc., and with Coats of Arms emblazoned on parchment (where proof of right to such insignia is well established). Each MS. contains all that can be found of the present descendant's direct ancestry, from parish registers, wills, letters of administration, records of births, marriages and deaths, conveyances of land, town and church histories, state archives, published genealogies, etc. Under each family is given a description of the Coat of Arms, Crest and Motto, an account of the origin of the name and family, a history of the foreign branches, a biography of the emigrant to this country, and lastly, the lineage in a direct line to the present descendant. Hence the records are as complete as can be made, and no effort is spared to make their presentation clear in style and artistic in form. As the researches embodied in each MS. are represented by months, and sometimes years, of work, the worth and rarity of the volume will be appreciated. Such a book will be a lasting memorial to one's forefathers, and will hand down to posterity a veritable legacy, increasing in value and fascination as the years roll by.

Foreign Histories Compiled

R. ANDREWS cordially invites a call at his studio and an inspection of his work. To those who reside at a distance he can arrange to forward sample MSS. for examination. He is compiler of over a hundred foreign histories, more or less complete, notably the following:

Andrews. History of the Andrews family in Scotland and England, 1219 A.D., to the present time.

Chittenden of Co. Kent, England, and Guilford, Conn.

Faunce of Co. Kent, England, and Plymouth, Mass.

Hinsdale. The "de Hinnisdal Family" in France, England and America, from 1170 A.D.

Holcombe of Devonshire, England, and Windsor, Conn.

Hooker. English Lineage of Rev. Thomas Hooker.

Leete. Foreign Ancestry of Gov. William Leete, of Conn., traced to the time of William the Conqueror.

Shipman. History of the family in England and Conn.

Willet. English Lineage of Captain Thomas Willet, first Mayor of New York.

Wright. The Wright Family in England and Connecticut.

A Complete List will be furnished on application.

American Genealogies

IN ADDITION, MR. ANDREWS has been engaged for several years upon the MATSON GENEALOGY, which will soon be published, and he has compiled a MS. of 1000 pages on "Early Connecticut Families." He is publisher of "Andrews' Genealogic Charts" for library use, and of the "Andrews Ancestral Register" for framing. A few copies of the Andrews Memorial, 1872, and Andrews' History of New Britain, Connecticut, are yet unsold. Prices on application.

Patriotic Societies

MEMBERS of Historic and Patriotic Societies will be interested to learn of the establishment of a Department of Special Research, under the direction of MR. ANDREWS, for investigating American lineages and collecting proof of descent from Colonial and Revolutionary ancestors. Arrangements can be made for a special search of any town, church, county or state records. Applications filled out for admission to Mayflower, Colonial Wars and Revolutionary Societies. THE SOCIETY OF MAYFLOWER DESCENDANTS in the State of California will be organized during the year 1904. All who desire to become charter members are urged to communicate with MR. ANDREWS at once.

Heraldic Designing

R. ANDREWS has devoted several years to this profession in connection with his genealogic work. Having studied under Carqueville and Goudy, in Chicago, he understands not only the ART of heraldic designing, but the SCIENCE which underlies it. In a large majority of cases it will be found that American families have "borne arms," and that there are means of establishing the right to bear Arms, though this right, through the vicissitudes of fortune or the restless ambition of ancestors, may have been lost sight of. A Coat of Arms is valueless unless the descendant's right has been verified and careful researches made to establish the history and significance of the armorial bearings. Hence heraldic designing requires more than mere artistic talent in its execution. In every case MR. ANDREWS will guarantee the correct drawing of the arms, and, if desired, will give a certificate properly endorsed by reliable eastern or foreign authorities, testifying to the correctness of the blazon and naming the family to which it properly appertains.

✚ PEDIGREES handsomely lettered and with Arms in colors, done on parchment, are attractive subjects for framing. These will be furnished after the English style.

✚ BOOK PLATES designed, incorporating the family Coat of Arms, or in keeping with the client's literary or artistic tastes.

✚ DIES made for stationery.

Terms

IT IS FREQUENTLY impossible to give any definite estimate as to expenses connected with securing certain data, but an approximate estimate can be furnished and a limit for expenses can always be agreed upon.

MR. ANDREWS assures his patrons that his prices will be as moderate as is consistent with reliable work. In researches for admission to Patriotic Societies the charge for a preliminary search is Ten Dollars, and this alone is often successful. A verified Coat of Arms in colors can be furnished for Ten Dollars and upward; and an illuminated Pedigree Chart on Parchment for Fifty to One Hundred Dollars, according to size. Foreign researches are more expensive. An extended British-American Family History traced out on maternal as well as paternal lines, and arranged as a bound MS. with charts and illuminations sells as high as Two Hundred and Fifty to One Thousand Dollars, dependent on the difficulty in proving connections between the several generations. It frequently costs several hundred dollars in foreign fees alone to secure abstracts of records referring to a trans-Atlantic lineage, while the compiling and preparation of the volume may easily absorb several months' time.

✠ MR. ANDREWS cannot undertake any investigations on a contingent basis. He has to employ many searchers and they require payment even if unsuccessful in finding any data desired.

✠ In special commissions a retaining fee is expected.

✠ All business is strictly confidential.

✠ Payment for all work is due upon tender of delivery. Data furnished can be verified afterwards as MR. ANDREWS always quotes authorities, and guarantees that his MSS. shall be satisfactory, and complete as it has been possible to make them. If connections between the several generations have been proved by abstracts from historical documents, the MSS. are to be considered "satisfactory and complete," and his remuneration due at once. But that his patrons may satisfy themselves in advance of his ability to decipher old records as well as his reliability in presenting the data found, MR. ANDREWS refers by permission to the following prominent people throughout the United States :
